QUESTION: 97

Mike, age 30, and his daughter lived with Mike's mother during the year. Mike's earned income and adjusted gross income for the year was $4,000. The mother's adjusted gross income for the year was $37,000. Assuming that the daughter is a qualifying child for both Mike and his mother, which of the following statements is true with regard to the Earned Income Credit?

- C. Mike can claim the credit since he is the parent, and his mother's adjusted gross income exceeds the limit for the year.
- D. Mike's mother can claim the credit because her adjusted gross income is more than Mike's.

Answer: C

The Earned Income Credit is a refundable tax credit for low-income taxpayers under Sec. 32. The credit is based on a taxpayer's earned income subject to certain limitations. An individual is eligible for the Earned Income Credit if (s)he has a qualifying child for the tax year or does not have a qualifying child for the tax year and (1) has a principal place of abode in the United States for more than one-half of the tax year, (2) has attained age 25 but not age 65 before the close of the tax year, and (3) is not a dependent of another taxpayer for any tax year beginning in the same calendar year. A qualifying child is one who bears the necessary relationship to the taxpayer, has the same principal place of abode as the taxpayer for more than one-half of the tax year, and meets the requisite age requirements, and one for whom the necessary identification requirements are satisfied. If more than one person has the same qualifying child, then the parent is given priority to claim the credit.
